Reports are coming in thick and fast about scams, phishing, smishing (it's like phishing but by text not email), fake deals that are too good to be true, courier frauds, messages claiming you haven't paid a bill – the list is endless. I know we all think we won't fall for these scams but they are very clever and designed to deceive us and many of us are taken in.

Never trust any unsolicited phone calls about your computer – no company or website can know if you have an issue with your computer, and question everything. Adopt a position of healthy cynicism and really think through what is being proposed - you wouldn't hand over personal details to someone who knocked on your door unexpectedly, why is a request on your computer or mobile any different? Don't be rushed or pressurised into making a decision and listen to your instincts.
